PASSENGERS — William Hall, a resident of Circleville, and Summer Bartholomew, Miss USA, were passengers on the Pan American round-the-world record setting flight over the weekend.

William Hall, a native of Pickaway County and a retired federal worker, was one of 117 passengers and crew aboard the Pan Am 747 that circled the world in 39 hours, 29 minutes and 53 seconds over the weekend, a record time for such a flight.

The flight departed JFK Airport, New York, 5:30 p.m. Saturday and returned 3:40 p.m. Monday. During the weekend, Hall gained and lost two Saturdays and two Sundays because of the eastward direction of the flight.

He carried with him a card of Jo Ann Brink of Knight Travel Service who made arrangements for the trip, Hall's fifth around the world jaunt. Hall pointed out the card went around the world in less than two days, faster than intercontinental mail can be sent and received in many cases.

Points the flight went over on the route were Newfoundland, Lond, Paris, Munich, Istanbul, Iran, New Delhi, Ind., where it made one of two stops. At New Delhi, the plane refueled taking on 49,138 gallons of fuel.

Leaving New Delhi, it continued over Bombay, Singapore, Manila to Tokyo where it made its second stop. There the flight was delayed two hours because of a strike of ground crew workers, and it was thought for a time that it would miss breaking the record.

From Tokyo, it flew eastward to Seattle, down the coast over San Francisco and Los Angeles, then eastward over the continent to New York.

A fellow member of the flight with Hall was Summer Bartholomew, Miss USA.

Hall reports he is on the priority list for a world flight over both poles, a flight for which the passenger list is presently being put together.

"Jo Ann will write that ticket for me too," Hall said, referring to Miss Brink who manages the Circleville office of Knight Travel Service.

Hall was born and raised on a farm between Williamsport and Clarksburg. He left the farm at 19, going to work for a builder in Columbus for three years. He enlisted in the United States Navy in the early 20s and spent four years in the service.

After his discharge he worked nine years in a steel mill in Mansfield before accepting a federal position in Washington D. C. He then spent the next 30 years as a government worker. For 26 of these years he was in the Pentagon, an engineer in air conditioning and building.

Hall has been around the world five times and south of the Equator four times. The retired federal employee usually spends four months of the year on his global flights, returning to Circleville in May.

World travel has been his avocation since he retired from government service in 1969.

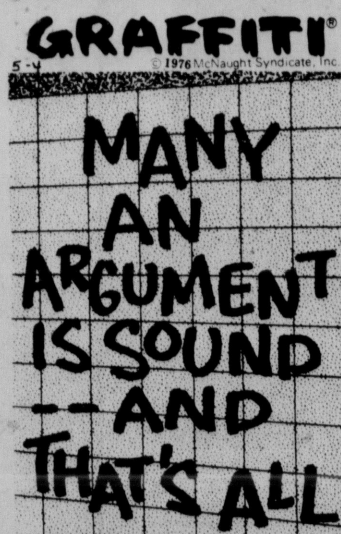

Reynolds To Take Key Role In MD Campaign

As a follow-up to its recently announced national sponsorship of the annual Jerry Lewis Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy, Reynolds Metals Company said today that its Ashville, Ohio, facility will take a leadership role in the Columbus area telethon drive.

With Columbus Mayor Tom Moody and Circleville Mayor Frank Barnhill on hand, W. F. Kazelskis, Reynolds Ashville plant manager, said that Reynolds will sponsor "Recycling for MDA Week" the week of August 2.

"At our Ashville facility we will be planning special collections with employees of other large firms in the Columbus area as well as with other industries and local organizations," he said.

Kazelskis explained that the company's MDA participation consists of urging groups and individuals to collect aluminum cans and other clean household aluminum, to turn the metal in to Reynolds and to donate the 15 cents per pound to The Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"Under this joint MDA-Reynolds Aluminum recycling program," Kazelskis said, "the company is embarking on an extensive promotional campaign in support of the muscular dystrophy drive designed to encourage people to direct the proceeds from their can collection efforts to the Jerry Lewis Telethon. The program offers a unique opportunity for supporting a worthy cause, for helping to clean up the environment, for conserving natural resources and for conserving energy," he added.

Jerry Lewis, national chairman, lauded Reynolds for its participation in the fund raising effort and commented that the responsiveness to MDA's appeal by firms such as Reynolds is an important factor in the progress being made toward finding solutions to the tragic problem of muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular disorders.

The proceeds from the MDA-Reynolds Aluminum recycling program will be announced on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, on local segments of the telecast as well as its origination point in Las Vegas.

Reynolds Ashville plant produces a variety of aluminum building products including siding, windows and doors, house trim, soffit, fascia and rain-carrying equipment.

Georgia, Alabama, Indiana Hold Primaries

By DAVE GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

The political campaign reaches its busiest primary day of the season so far as voters in three states help decide today whether Ronald Reagan can take the Republican presidential nomination by overcoming Gerald Ford and the built-in advantages of an incumbent President.

Ford and Reagan meet head-on in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana as interest shifts to the GOP race intensified by Reagan's sweep on Saturday of Texas' 96 delegates in a landslide even the former California governor hadn't foreseen.

That marks a complete shift from a short six weeks ago, when Ford seemed to be coasting toward nomination and the Democratic contest was still a free-for-all that was anything but the Jimmy Carter runaway it now seems to be.

Ford made a late swing through Indiana and Alabama Monday, challenging Reagan at one point to produce his income tax records. The challenger promptly did so.

The President was on the offensive much of the time, attacking Reagan's plan to trim the federal budget as a "90 billion bloop" and continuing the debate over the Panama Canal, an issue given credit for helping Reagan in Texas.

There are Democratic races today in all three states as well as in the District of Columbia. There are a total of 177 Democratic delegates to be picked, and Carter, the former Georgia governor, is in good position to win at least two-thirds of them with little trouble.

But the Republican side, where there are 139 delegates at stake, is another story. After Texas, Ford's delegate lead has been narrowed to 283-236, and if Reagan does well he could take the lead, although there are 254 uncommitted delegates from New York and Pennsylvania who are actually in Ford's camp.

Here is how the GOP primaries line up:

INDIANA (54 delegates): Two months ago, Ford's polls gave him a 25 per cent lead, but surveys now show Reagan closing. State Republican leaders, most of whom back Ford, predict the President will win. So does Ford. Reagan does not predict a victory but says it will be close.

GEORGIA (48 delegates): Reagan, as he has predicted, has swept through the South and Southwest. And he's believed to be doing well in Georgia, where he's counting on Democratic crossover from George Wallace to help him, as they apparently did in Texas. Ford's state campaign director, Joe Wilkinson, says, "That could shoot us down pretty bad."

ALABAMA (37 delegates): Another

Southern state where Reagan hopes for Wallace crossovers. Ford, conceding he is the underdog, campaigned there Monday, the state's three GOP congressmen at his side, and hopes to cut into the challenger's margin.

Wallace, whose supporters may be a factor in the Republican contest, is the only major challenger to Carter in the two Southern primaries, although Rep. Morris K. Udall has slates in two Georgia congressional districts and a few scattered candidates in Alabama.

Carter and Wallace each are favored in their home states, but each has campaigned strenuously in the other. Carter is given a better chance to make inroads in Alabama (27 delegates elected and eight more chosen afterward) than Wallace is in Georgia (50 delegates), particularly if the Alabama governor loses crossovers to Reagan.

Carter is also expected to do well in Indiana, where 75 delegates will be chosen. Wallace is on the ballot there, too, but Sen. Henry M. Jackson ceased his active campaigning last week and Udall was disqualified when he failed to get the required signatures in one congressional district.

The District of Columbia chooses 17 delegates, but only Carter campaigned actively there, although Udall and Fred Harris are also on the ballot. The major interest is local, a fight between two uncommitted slates headed by Mayor Walter Washington and Walter Fauntroy, the district's nonvoting delegate in Congress.

There is no Republican primary in the district. The GOP slate, all 14 delegates pledged to Ford, has already been chosen.

It was in Birmingham, Ala., Monday that Ford raised the income tax issue. He recalled that in April he had disclosed his tax records.

Reagan was in West Virginia when he heard of Ford's challenge. "I didn't realize it hadn't been done," he said of release of his own statement. "It was done today."

Reagan, in his tax statement, said he paid $106,507 in combined federal and local taxes during 1975 on what he said

Ohio Food Costs Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chicken became a bargain word in Ohio grocery stores this month as prices reached a 17-month high at the end of April.

An Associated Press survey of prices on 16 items in 17 Ohio cities cost an average of $18.66. This is the highest since Dec. 1, 1974 when the cost averaged $18.99.

Coffee continued the increase which started last August and $5.00 or more for a three-pound can became the norm. Some grocers held the line at $4.99. The average of all cities was $4.68, up 20 cents for the month.

"It seems like there is no end to it on coffee at all," said a Chillicothe grocery manager who asked not to be named. "It is supposed to go up again and I figure sales on coffee will drop off 20 per cent and coffee will go up another 40 cents per pound."

Similar comments came from an Akron grocer.

"I don't see an end to it," he said of coffee prices, "and there will be another big jump next week."

Hamburger was the only meat item in Ohio that did not go up in price at month's end, holding steady with the previous month at 85 cents per pound.

Average price of a pound of chuck roast at the 17 cities rose from $1.00 April 1 to $1.12 May 1. Chicken went up three cents to 61 cents per pound for whole fryers and pork chops increased two per cent to $1.79 per pound for center cuts.

Milk held steady at 74 cents for a half-gallon and margarine went up two cents, three per cent, to 55 cents for a pound in sticks.

Eggs declined five per cent on average to 65 cents for a dozen white medium and toilet tissue dropped one cent to 78 cents for a four-roll pack. Bread was down one cent for a one-pound loaf and sugar held steady at $1.21 for five pounds of granulated.

Potatoes rose six per cent to $1.70 for ten pounds of white Idahos and detergent increased an average of one cent to $1.35 for a 49 ounce box.

Chocolate chip cookies, the steadiest price-wise on the list, averaged 98 cents for a 14 1/2 ounce pack.

Frozen orange juice dropped two cents to 67 cents for a 12-ounce can.

The average of all items by cities: Akron, $19.49, up 12 per cent over April 1; Athens, $19.20, up two per cent; Canton, $17.18, up one per cent; Chillicothe, $19.20, up one per cent; Cincinnati, $18.79, up four one-hundredths of a per cent; Cleveland, $18.63, up four per cent; Columbus, $19.79, up three per cent; Conneaut, $17.53, up two per cent; Findlay, $17.53, up two per cent.

Fremont, $18.64, up five per cent; Massillon, $16.81, up two per cent; Portsmouth, $20.22, up two per cent; Salem, $18.78, up two per cent; Steubenville, $20.10, up three per cent; Toledo, $17.48, up four per cent; Youngstown, $18.86, up nine one-hundredths of a per cent.

Van Wert was the only city checked in Ohio where lower prices were recorded. The average cost there of $18.08 for the total list, compares with $19.07 a month ago.

City Pension Costs 'Time Bomb'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future retirement of millions of municipal employees is a "fiscal time bomb" for many American cities that do not know or fail to disclose the amount of money they eventually will have to pay for pensions, a study of city accounting methods says.

The study of 43 of the nation's largest cities said "millions of taxpayers are being kept in the dark because some cities just don't know, or don't disclose, their unfunded pension obligations."

A preliminary portion of the study, conducted by Earl Keller of the University of Michigan and Robert Cokkrell of the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, was released Monday.

"These debts represent a fiscal time bomb that is ticking away at the fiscal integrity of many of our cities. And many cities do not know when the time bomb will go off," the study said. "If local control is to be preserved, cities must vastly improve their present fiscal management practices."

The undisclosed retirement obligations mean "taxpayers are not aware that they will have to make up the dollars that must be paid into pension funds in the future to provide for the benefits of retired employees," the report said. "These dollar amounts are staggering."

Unfunded pensions are not financed through regular fund investments during a worker's employment but are paid out of general revenues when the employee retires.

The report said only eight of the 43 cities received an auditor's report that did not take exception to their reporting of financial conditions and obligations. They are Austin, Fort Worth and Corpus Christi, Tex.; Birmingham, Ala.; Chicago; Phoenix, Ariz.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Wichita, Kan.

The report also found that 16 of the cities do not disclose unfunded obligations for anticipated retirement benefits and only seven cities disclose their total dollar obligations for employee vacations and sick leave. These are Honolulu; Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.; Oakland, San Jose and Sacramento, Calif.; and Portland, Ore.

It said 17 don't list in annual reports a debt incurred by taxing agencies other than the city but which are paid by city taxpayers, almost 30 per cent do not maintain adequate records to safeguard assets such as land, buildings and equipment, and only 26 of the cities have their financial statements audited by a certified public accountant.

The report said unfunded pension liabilities often exceed $100 million and in some instances hit $1 billion. It said the 16 cities that fail to disclose such debts are Akron, Toledo, Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio; Chicago; Boston; Corpus Christi, Tex.; Des Moines, Iowa; Honolulu; Indianapolis; Long Beach, Calif.; Pittsburgh; St. Paul; Seattle; Tucson, Ariz.; and Portland, Ore.

RAISE MANHOLES — Crews of the Circleville Department of Public Service have been working to raise manholes on storm and sanitary sewers to street level. Their efforts will make cleaning of the lines easier, and should help smooth out some of the low spots on the highways, according to Service Director Woody Jones.

Akron Men Bound To Grand Jury

Three Akron men, charged with multiple counts of stealing citizen band radios from Circleville and Pickaway County residents on April 20, were bound to the grand jury Monday by Circleville Municipal Court Judge O. Charles Hosterman.

The court began preliminary proceedings against Steven Smith, Robert T. Hart and Rickey Lee Hicks on Wednesday but due to the number of witnesses presented by the state, the hearings were continued until Monday. James R. Kinsley, local attorney, was acting city solicitor in the hearings and presented the evidence on behalf of the State of Ohio.

Court officials report that there were a total of 27 cases bound to the grand jury on the three men. Each of the cases carried a $2,000 bond.

In action Monday, Judge Hosterman dismissed one case of grand theft against each of the three defendants and reduced three cases on each one from grand theft to petit theft finding that there was insufficient evidence to bind the defendants to the grand jury. Those cases will be heard as misdemeanors on Thursday.

The defendants Smith, Hicks and Hart were represented by court appointed counsel Tom Tootle, Al Sedlack and John Farthing, respectively.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today in continued hesitancy over the prospects for inflation and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down less than a point after opening trades.

But more New York Stock Exchange issues were advancing in price than declining. Trading was light.

Investors have been studying recent statements by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns and fluctuations in interest rates for a clue to what moves the Fed might be planning in its effort to control inflation.

Burns said Monday that inflation is still a matter of concern and told the Senate Banking Committee that the Fed has lowered slightly its target range for the growth in the nation's money supply over the next year.

U.S. Steel was up 3/4 to 81 3/4 in early trading today. General Motors was up 1/4 at 70 1/2 and American Telephone rose 1/4 to 57 1/4.

On Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 6.53 to 990.32, and declining NYSE issues led those advancing by a 10-3 margin.

Lebanese Civil War Toll Rises Again

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria attacked the American peacemaking effort in Lebanon today as Lebanese Moslem and Christian forces hammered at each other with tanks, heavy artillery and rockets.

The Damascus newspaper AlBaath, the organ of Syria's ruling Baath Socialist party, called on all "allied and friendly" forces in Lebanon "to foil the destructive mission" of President Ford's special envoy, L. Dean Brown.

Brown and the Ford administration have been supporting Syrian efforts to end the war and prevent a leftist Moslem victory that would reduce Lebanon's former Christian rulers to a powerless minority.

But today the official Syrian paper charged the United States with "aiming at the partition of the Lebanon and at foiling the Syrian peace initiative in that country." It accused the leader of the Lebanese leftists with "cooperating with the imperialists to materialize the partition."

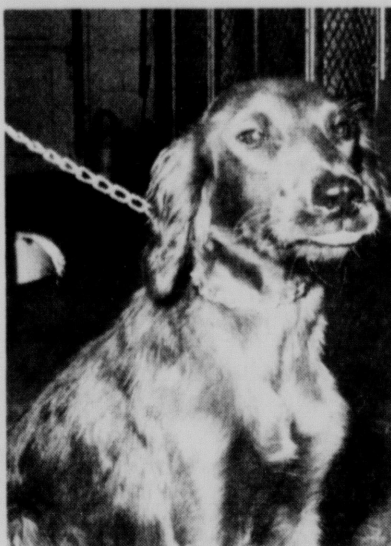

Meanwhile, the opposing factions in Lebanon's year-long civil war traded tank assaults and fought at close range as leftist Moslems battled to drive the right-wing Christians from the port of Beirut.

Rear positions waged a nightlong duel with 122mm and 155mm cannon and antiaircraft guns.

Police reported at least 74 persons killed and 72 wounded during the night in Beirut and its suburbs. They said 22 more died and 31 were wounded in neighboring mountain towns.

A spokesman reported that both Christian and Moslem officers from the disintegrated Lebanese army threw their troops and armor into the battle that began with the expiration of the 35th cease-fire last Friday.

Howitzer shells and rockets ripped into high-rise apartment buildings in both Moslem and Christian quarters. Many buildings were set afire.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today in continued hesitancy over the prospects for inflation and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down less than a point after opening trades.

But more New York Stock Exchange issues were advancing in price than declining. Trading was light.

Investors have been studying recent statements by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns and fluctuations in interest rates for a clue to what moves the Fed might be planning in its effort to control inflation.

Burns said Monday that inflation is still a matter of concern and told the Senate Banking Committee that the Fed has lowered slightly its target range for the growth in the nation's money supply over the next year.

U.S. Steel was up 3/8 to 81 1/4 in early trading today. General Motors was up 1/8 at 70 1/2 and American Telephone rose 1/8 to 57 1/8.

On Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 6.53 to 990.32, and declining NYSE issues led those advancing by a 10-3 margin.

Brown and the Ford administration have been supporting Syrian efforts to end the war and prevent a leftist Moslem victory that would reduce Lebanon's former Christian rulers to a powerless minority.

But today the official Syrian paper charged the United States with "aiming at the partition of the Lebanon and at foiling the Syrian peace initiative in that country." It accused the leader of the Lebanese leftists with "cooperating with the imperialists to materialize the partition."

Meanwhile, the opposing factions in Lebanon's year-long civil war traded tank assaults and fought at close range as leftist Moslems battled to drive the right-wing Christians from the port of Beirut.

Rear positions waged a nightlong duel with 122mm and 155mm cannon and antiaircraft guns.

Police reported at least 74 persons killed and 72 wounded during the night in Beirut and its suburbs. They said 22 more died and 31 were wounded in neighboring mountain towns.

A spokesman reported that both Christian and Moslem officers from the disintegrated Lebanese army threw their troops and armor into the battle that began with the expiration of the 35th cease-fire last Friday.

Howitzer shells and rockets ripped into high-rise apartment buildings in both Moslem and Christian quarters. Many buildings were set afire.

Malthus Reargued

Thomas Robert Malthus was an English curate-turned-economist who, in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, laid down some quite elaborate principles on population growth.

Among them was one which said that population grows up to the limits of subsistence. Unchecked growth would lead to stripping the world of food and consequent disaster.

Malthus had many followers in his time, but after his death his theories fell into disrepute.

Great countries such as the United States, Canada and Australia developed their resources and became giant bread baskets for Europe's and Asia's multiplying populations. Victorian self-confidence laid to rest the specter Malthus had raised.

In recent years Malthus has attracted new followers and new opponents. Malthus' arguments may have been convincing in his time, but there are mysterious environmental laws which operate in nature.

There is no reason to believe that modern industrial societies are more immune to them than were, say, some of the islands in the Pacific.

When Capt. Cook discovered them he observed that nature had provided abundant food, but the populations were not excessive.

Living History

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
COLONIAL WILLIAMSBURG, VA. — Almost every morning for the last 21 years, Mrs. Carol DeSampier has peered out the windows of her quaint 18th century house - and found herself eyeball-to-eyeball with curious strangers peeking back in at her.

Disconcerting?

"Oh no, not really," says Mrs. DeSampier cheerfully. "You have to give up some privacy for the privilege of living 'back in time' as we do. If you get up early enough and walk out in the morning mist ... I tell you, it's like being part of a dream. You're really living in the days of the Revolution."

Pretty Mrs. DeSampier, with her husband Hugh and two daughters, form one of 75 families who reside, year round, in the original houses within the walls of Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia's capital two centuries ago. The town, founded in 1699 and restored in 1926 by John D. Rockefeller Jr., long has been an historic stopover for American family tourists; and this year, it is the Bicentennial mecca.

The DeSampier home, which appears part of a lovely stage setting, is cozied up flush against cobblestoned Duke of Gloucester Street, and is sandwiched between a craft shop and the old printing and post office. As many as 30,000 persons a day stroll in and out of the shops to watch demonstrations of life in the 1700s - and when the DeSampiers step out for a breath of air they're often caught in a crowd.

"But it's worth it, because if you love old houses, you know that one like ours would be beyond the reach of anyone's budget."

The original basement kitchen of their home is, and must remain because of the rules relating to landmarks, quite primitive; "But ew've equipped one of the first floor rooms with Sears's finest appliances," she says with a grin. The floors of the house are "charmingly slanted - custard pies always settle at an angle." People who rent homes in the historic area can have televisions, but antennae must be cleverly concealed, in a tree or a chimney. Cars are not permitted on the roads during visiting hours, but can be kept camouflaged in stables and taken out when the Williamsburg gates are closed. "It's a great money-saver," says Carol, "not being able to use the car a lot. I go shopping once a month, buy everything I can get my hands on, and make do in between. There's no such thing as 'impulse shopping.'"

Having lived in the Colonial restoration all their married lives (Hugh DeSampier is a director of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation), the family has on occasion considered moving away to a more modern community. "But then we've thought again." Though antiquity brings problems, the Foundation has a large maintenance staff that is on constant duty to take care of the old houses the minute they show signs of creakiness.

"Where else can you get a plumber in the middle of the night?" Carol points out.

The DeSampier children, who are probably the most historically savvy females in the state of Virginia, if not the whole country, have occasionally pondered the lack of activity in their 18th century environment. "But our older daughter has always enjoyed the romantic atmosphere and resisted change," says Carol. "Now that she's in college, she appreciates it even more because when other students ask where she comes from and she tells them, she's treated as quite unique."

"The younger daughter, who's a junior in high school, has felt sometimes that she would rather have lived in a 'regular neighborhood.' But she's reasonable and goes along with what the rest of us want."

The people who live full time in Colonial Williamsburg, at reasonable rents, are awarded their particular homes "on the basis of seniority (with the Foundation) and size of family," says Mrs. DeSampier. "Hugh and I started out our married life in the John Krump Brick Kitchen - just a kitchen with a tiny bedroom attached. Then, when our first baby came, we were moved to the Philip Lightfoot house, an especially delightful 1747 home which was short on rooms but had a front hall that was 30 by 12 feet. We came to this house after our second child came."

Of the 75 families living in Colonial Williamsburg, a half-dozen are "life-tenants." These are people who owned property in the little town back in the early 1920s when the rector of Bruton Parish Church persuaded John D. Rockefeller Jr. that the city's historic buildings should be preserved.

Property owners were given an opportunity to sell their homes and land at a handsome price, or to remain in the city of Williamsburg for life, taken care of economically by the Foundation. Those who elected to stay are now elderly, and rarely venture out among the hordes of Americans and foreign dignitaries who visit the 88 original buildings brought back to sparkling beauty.

Colonial Williamsburg is described as a "museum city" - but it, and the people who live in and love it, are very much alive.

The great Shawnee Indian Chief Tecumseh as a boy watched from a tree when Gen. George Rogers Clark and his men won a battle against the Shawnees near Springfield, Ohio at the site of the old Indian village of Piqua, and his hatred of the whites began then.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My head hurts, mostly from all the commercials about special kinds of aspirin, all competing for my attention. Is one aspirin as good as another? If so, why is there such a difference in cost?

Mrs. G.S., Ohio

Dear Mrs. S.:

Aspirin is universally accepted as a valuable and effective drug when used judiciously.

It still remains one of the most beneficial drugs for many cases of chronic rheumatoid arthritis and to reduce the aches and fever of ordinary respiratory infections.

All aspirin made by reliable manufacturers must be considered the same in its effectiveness. The wide disparity in the cost of aspirin must therefore be attributed only to packaging and advertising and not to the quality of the aspirin.

Have you ever heard of a "Saturday night" disease?

Miss D.D., Minn.

Dear Miss D.:

A special type of paralysis of the arm has been referred to as "Saturday night paralysis."

The name originated because it is associated with "Saturday night" alcoholic bouts. During these bouts, the arms may be loosely thrown over the back of a chair, remaining in this position for a long time.

Paralysis is caused by a compression of nerves and blood vessels in the axilla, or armpit.

The paralysis is usually temporary. Its duration depends on the severity of the injury to the nerve.

Mors sober people who keep their arms in such a fixed position recognize the tingling sensation in the tips of their fingers and, of course, change their position and prevent damage to the nerve.

Is leprosy included in the list of venereal diseases?

Mr. J.T., Miss.

Dear Mr. T.:

No, it is not. Leprosy is an infectious disease caused by a germ closely related to the one that causes tuberculosis.

Since it is an infectious disease, it can be transmitted from person to person. It is definitely not a venereal disease and must not carry with it any social stigma.

In areas where leprosy still exist, great strides have been made with drugs as a preventative.

Another group of drugs has been remarkably effective in treating and controlling some forms of leprosy.

Thank you for the time you spent in arranging the displays and your interesting explanations so we could have an insight as to your various duties.

Your time and effort was appreciated.

MRS. BERNARD D. WOLFE

Circleville, Ohio

Dear Editor:

This is in response to Mrs. Pauline Clifton's letter.

I, too, have lost some of my faith in my fellow man.

My house has been broken into seven times. All items of sentimental value have been taken. Things which were passed on to me by my parents are gone and can never be replaced. No one ever sees these culprits stealing. Like parasites, they prey upon other human beings.

It is hard to believe that I could have had a rug taken off the floor in an upstairs bedroom by someone who decided he had a greater right to it than I did.

It is a traumatic experience to come home and find windows broken out; doors broken in; and the entire house completely torn up.

Everytime I leave my home, the thought uppermost in my mind - "Will they be back again today?" What more do they want? I have nothing of great value left.

What has happened to this "Great Country Of Ours" that law abiding and God-fearing people cannot have the right to be secure in their homes without the invasion also of their personal privacy?

Dear Editor:

The Youth Easter Seal Fun Follies was held Saturday night in George McDowell Exchange School Auditorium. Music was provided by the Logan Elm Stage Band under the direction of Mr. David Price. All of the youth in the cast were members of the Logan Elm School District. All rehearsals were held in various schools in the Logan Elm School District. All proceeds were donated to Easter Seals of Pickaway County. Several hundred dollars were collected in tickets sold at the door and in advance ticket sales.

Thanks to the following merchants for their help in making the show possible:

Brehmer's Greenhouse, Walnut Street Greenhouse, Super X Drugs, Risch Drugs, Bingman Drugs, Sherwin Williams Paint, Roundtown Hobby Shop, J. C. Penney Co., Murphy Mart, Fitzpatrick Printing, Hecks, Buckeye Mart, DuPont E I DeNemours & Co.

A cast party was held Sunday at Pizza Hut. Pizza Hut provided pizza at a large discount and drinks were provided by the Coca Cola Bottling Company.

Japan Trip Said Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes says his sudden trip to the Far East "opened the doors with the management" of the three major automobile manufacturers in Japan.

He said Monday there was "a great possibility that they will expand in the U.S."

The 66-year-old governor returned from the four-day jaunt Saturday night. He left last week with scant prior notice, startling even some of his aides.

"We got a call that said you should come over here now because they are willing to talk," Rhodes said, explaining the unusual departure.

He noted the development followed Volkswagen's announcement of possible expansion in Ohio, but declined to link the two.

The governor indicated he had met with representatives from Datsun, Honda and Toyota, while in Japan.

"We're very guarded in what we say," he replied when pressed at a news conference for more details. "If we make some statement that they can call us down on, then it hurts negotiations."

On April 18, 1958, a sunken ammunition ship exploded in Okinawa Harbor, killing 40 persons.

Ohio's fourth constitutional convention in 1912 submitted an amendment that would have allowed women to vote, but it was rejected at the polls.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The flow of encouraging economic statistics that is widely believed to have strengthened political support for President Ford may be interrupted in coming weeks, perhaps as early as this week.

The consequences cannot be foreseen precisely, because so much depends on the over-all mood in which the statistics are interpreted, but the President in the past has relied heavily on statistics to support his campaign.

Perhaps portending a change, the Index of Leading Indicators fell in March for the first time in five months. While economists caution that one month doesn't constitute a trend, signals are flashing from other directions too.

One of the most significant set of statistics, on the Wholesale Price Index, will be released later this week, and some economists fear it will show a decided worsening of inflation.

Increases in prices of raw materials, food, energy and other commodities are expected by some private economists here to push the index close to a double digit rate, which could be reflected later in consumer prices.

Some of the statistical difficulties that could develop might be attributed to deficiencies in the statistics themselves, which some critics feel have exaggerated the improvement and are now tending to correct themselves.

A highly significant statistical change will be reflected in the jobless statistics for April and May, when the seasonal adjustment factor reverses itself.

In January, February and March, the number of jobless counted in the raw data was adjusted downward, because in those months seasonal factors generally produce more unemployment. But in April and May, the number is adjusted upward.

There is no certainty that the seasonal adjustment factor will cause an increase in the unemployment rate, but Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has several times cautioned that the rate could rise.

Questions persist about the accuracy of the adjustment factor, and in fact with the raw data. As happened last year also, large discrepancies appeared early this year in the figures of two of the bureau's job surveys.

Another area economists are watching involves figures for the Gross National Product, which is the total output of goods and services. The strong advances announced for both the third and fourth quarters of 1975 has since been revised lower.

If the same pattern continues, the news could be construed by some people as suggesting a weakening of the recovery. And the leveling off of inventory buildups which helped push up early GNP figures, might add to that impression.

Economists also are watching interest rates and some highly regarded private institutions already have forecast a rising trend. Moreover, they foresee the increases becoming even sharper if inflation worsens.

What all this will mean to the stock market can only be guessed, but it is important to note that the market has been sensitive to economic data. Many analysts equate the sharp rise earlier this year to the flow of statistics.

The government and the Ford administration are aware that the almost uninterrupted flow of good news from the computers couldn't continue and repeatedly have alluded to the likelihood of a moderation.

The true political significance of a downturn in some statistics — if indeed they even develop — must await the interpretation given by the people.

If they are viewed as short-term interruptions in an economy that is still recovering, the impact could be moderated, as it would be if the public recognized that some of the statistics continue to improve, but at a slower rate.

But if fears are aroused in people who have not yet recovered from the deepest recession since the 1930s, it could be a different story.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My head hurts, mostly from all the commercials about special kinds of aspirin, all competing for my attention. Is one aspirin as good as another? If so, why is there such a difference in cost?

Mrs. G.S., Ohio

Dear Mrs. S.:

Aspirin is universally accepted as a valuable and effective drug when used judiciously.

It still remains one of the most beneficial drugs for many cases of chronic rheumatoid arthritis and to reduce the aches and fever of ordinary respiratory infections.

All aspirin made by reliable manufacturers must be considered the same in its effectiveness. The wide disparity in the cost of aspirin must therefore be attributed only to packaging and advertising and not to the quality of the aspirin.

Have you ever heard of a "Saturday night" disease?

Miss D.D., Minn.

Dear Miss D.:

A special type of paralysis of the arm has been referred to as "Saturday night paralysis."

The name originated because it is associated with "Saturday night" alcoholic bouts. During these bouts, the arms may be loosely thrown over the back of a chair, remaining in this position for a long time.

Paralysis is caused by a compression of nerves and blood vessels in the axilla, or armpit.

The paralysis is usually temporary. Its duration depends on the severity of the injury to the nerve.

Mors sober people who keep their arms in such a fixed position recognize the tingling sensation in the tips of their fingers and, of course, change their position and prevent damage to the nerve.

Is leprosy included in the list of venereal diseases?

Mr. J.T., Miss.

Dear Mr. T.:

No, it is not. Leprosy is an infectious disease caused by a germ closely related to the one that causes tuberculosis.

Since it is an infectious disease, it can be transmitted from person to person. It is definitely not a venereal disease and must not carry with it any social stigma.

In areas where leprosy still exist, great strides have been made with drugs as a preventative.

Another group of drugs has been remarkably effective in treating and controlling some forms of leprosy.

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my appreciation for the opportunity on Sunday afternoon to visit the offices of the Court House and the tour of the Pickaway County Jail.

Thank you for the time you spent in arranging the displays and your interesting explanations so we could have an insight as to your various duties.

Your time and effort was appreciated.

MRS. BERNARD D. WOLFE
Linden Lane
Circleville, Ohio

Dear Editor:

This is in response to Mrs. Pauline Clifton's letter.

I, too, have lost some of my faith in my fellow man.

My house has been broken into seven times. All items of sentimental value have been taken. Things which were passed on to me by my parents are gone and can never be replaced. No one ever sees these culprits stealing. Like parasites, they prey upon other human beings.

It is hard to believe that I could have had a rug taken off the floor in an upstairs bedroom by someone who decided he had a greater right to it than I did.

It is a traumatic experience to come home and find windows broken out; doors broken in; and the entire house completely torn up.

Everytime I leave my home, the thought uppermost in my mind - "Will they be back again today?" What more do they want? I have nothing of great value left.

What has happened to this "Great Country Of Ours" that law abiding and God-fearing people cannot have the right to be secure in their homes without the invasion also of their personal privacy?

Dear Editor:

The Youth Easter Seal Fun Follies was held Saturday night in George McDowell Exchange School Auditorium. Music was provided by the Logan Elm Stage Band under the direction of Mr. David Price. All of the youth in the cast were members of the Logan Elm School District. All rehearsals were held in various schools in the Logan Elm School District. All proceeds were donated to Easter Seals.

of Pickaway County. Several hundred dollars were collected in tickets sold at the door and in advance ticket sales.

Thanks to the following merchants for their help in making the show possible:

Brehmer's Greenhouse, Walnut Street Greenhouse, Super X Drugs, Risch Drugs, Bingman Drugs, Sherwin Williams Paint, Roundtown Hobby Shop, J. C. Penney Co., Murphy Mart, Fitzpatrick Printing, Hecks, Buckeye Mart, DuPont E I DeMours & Co.

A cast party was held Sunday at Pizza Hut. Pizza Hut provided pizza at a large discount and drinks were provided by the Coca Cola Bottling Company.

The program was given with much talent and enthusiasm by the youth because they know and believe in the work and services provided by Easter Seals.

Japan Trip Said Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes says his sudden trip to the Far East "opened the doors with the management" of the three major automobile manufacturers in Japan.

He said Monday there was "a great possibility that they will expand in the U.S."

The 66-year-old governor returned from the four-day jaunt Saturday night. He left last week with scant prior notice, startling even some of his aides.

"We got a call that said you should come over here now because they are willing to talk," Rhodes said, explaining the unusual departure.

He noted the development followed Volkswagen's announcement of possible expansion in Ohio, but declined to link the two.

The governor indicated he had met with representatives from Datsun, Honda and Toyota, while in Japan.

"We're very guarded in what we say," he replied when pressed at a news conference for more details. "If we make some statement that they can call us down on, then it hurts negotiations."

On April 18, 1958, a sunken ammunition ship exploded in Okinawa Harbor, killing 40 persons.

Ohio's fourth constitutional convention in 1912 submitted an amendment that would have allowed women to vote, but it was rejected at the polls.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

She's Flipped Over Neighbor's Blinks

DEAR ABBY: My husband is having an affair with a widow who lives right across the street. When he passes her house, he blinks his lights and she flips her venetian blinds. They signal each other back and forth, and then he makes up excuses to get out of the house to meet her.

He says they are only good friends, but I know that she is man-hungry and not at all fussy who she goes with. I also know that she likes my husband. How should I put a stop to this?

JEALOUS
DEAR JEALOUS: You can't stop a man from blinking his lights or a woman from flipping her venetian blinds. If you think he is "blinking" for her and she is "flipping" for him, get them both together and have a truth-or-consequence session.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my in-laws: When I married their son (three years ago) I had a beautiful, 2-year-old daughter who had been born out of wedlock. Debbie never saw her "real" father, so the only relatives she has are mine.

My in-laws let me know from the beginning that they would never accept Debbie as their grandchild. (They even asked her to call them "Mr. and Mrs. Brown"!)

This never bothered me too much until I gave birth to Johnny, who is nearly 2 now.

Last Christmas my in-laws showered Johnny with expensive gifts signed, "With love from Grandma and Grandpa." Little Debbie got a cheap toy with a card, "From the Browns."

Abby, don't you think it's utterly ridiculous for one of my children to call my in-laws "Grandma and Grandpa," and the other "Mr. and Mrs. Brown"? This situation is tearing me apart. What do you advise?

HURT IN BATON ROUGE
DEAR HURT: Where is your husband while all this is going on? If he puts up with it shame on him. You have every right to avoid your in-laws and prevent them from seeing Johnny until they can treat both children equally. They are wrong, wrong, wrong!

DEAR ABBY: This is for OREGON MOTHER who complained because her adopted Oriental children attract so much attention where ever they go.

Human nature is the same all over the world, Abby. We are Americans living in Taiwan temporarily for business reasons. We have two children, 3 and 4 years old, and they have had about all they can take of having their cheeks pinched and their blond hair touched.

Crowds or giggling salesgirls and curious shoppers stare and point at them, and native youngsters peer around corners just to get a look at them.

At first my children sensed my annoyance, and they became upset, wondering what was "wrong" with them. But then I realized that their curiosity was natural and they didn't mean to be rude, I reacted good-humoredly and so did the children.

We enjoy Dear Abby in the Stars and Stripes. It's like a daily letter from home.

Henry Gets Heavy Gifts

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The cargo compartment of Secretary Henry A. Kissinger's plane is so crammed with souvenirs that the plane has to make two refueling stops on the way home from Africa. Only one was necessary on the way to Africa.

Officials decline to estimate the cost of the extra stop Thursday, but it will be substantial. For one thing, half a dozen Secret Service agents have been ordered to the Greek island of Crete, the first refueling point, to arrange security protection. They will be there four days to prepare for a 15-minute stop.

Federal regulations forbid government officials from keeping gifts worth more than $50. Last week, at Victoria Falls, Zambian tribal chiefs presented a drum, two carved impala and other handicrafts to Kissinger.

"I'd put it at $49.50," said the secretary of state, puzzling the chiefs but not his traveling companions.

Early Ohio roads followed Indian trails and these usually followed the highest ridges because the red men found that there the rain and frost did the least damage and the ridges were dry soon after showers. Also, winds swept leaves and snow from the high ground, trees were fewer there hence not so many fallen trunks blocking the way.

Conservationist Don Archer Derby Garden Club Speaker

Don Archer, conservationist of Pickaway County, spoke and showed slides at the April 26 meeting of the Derby Garden Club. His color slides showed the changes in agriculture that have affected the wasteful practices that are now depleting the top soil.

He said "Pickaway County now has eight inches to of top soil. It takes 1000 years to build a one inch layer of top soil "He illustrated examples of irresponsible land use that will produce critical problems for future generations. He also showed examples being used by wise Ohio conservation cooperators to conserve water and soil.

Much of the best and most fertile land for food production is being diverted into non-agriculture purposes. Farmers today have large capital investments. Large acreages have been reduced with the fewer farmers doing the work, as a result fewer persons have a voice in legislative issues.

The need for better communication between community leaders, citizens and legislative representatives is needed for the wise use and development of the land and water resources that we have.

During the business meeting, Jane Vance reported on the club's participation in the Pickaway County Conservation coloring contest for fifth grade students. The club sponsored the contest at the Darby and Jackson Schools and awarded prizes to top

Aggrey Faces 'Hot Seat' On Welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year veteran of the state Public Welfare Department has been named to fill the hot seat vacated by rejected director Raymond McKenna.

Kwegyir Aggrey, 67, is Gov. James A. Rhodes' choice to take the reins of the financially troubled and extremely sensitive agency. But Rhodes said many of the responsibilities will be borne by McKenna who has agreed to stay on as Aggrey's chief deputy.

Aggrey has been serving as Cleveland district manager for the department and is past president of the Ohio Welfare Conference. He is also a black man whose father was known as "the founding father of public education in his native Ghana," according to a release issued by Rhodes' office.

"Let me say the man is black and I did not appoint him because he is black," Rhodes said at a Monday news conference. "He's qualified, probably one of the most qualified in the state."

McKenna was ousted by the state Senate last week after a year-long dispute with legislators over the department's financial condition. The Senate vote followed a wave of protests sparked by McKenna's decision to reduce state Medicaid reimbursements in order to offset a funding deficit.

Rhodes has postponed the cut to May 15, but he said he would not suspend a 2 per cent spending cutback in effect at all state departments, including welfare.

"There's not going to be a lifting of the 2 per cent freeze for the simple reason that the budget would be out of balance," he said.

Kindergarten Students To Register

Walnut Elementary School, in the Teays Valley School District will hold kindergarten and first grade registration on May 10 and 11 between the hours of 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the school. Parents are asked to bring their child to the school on either of those days.

Children are eligible for kindergarten if they are five years old on or before Sept. 30 and they must be six years old on or before Sept. 30 to enroll in first grade.

Records required for registration include a birth certificate and medical immunization records.

State law requires immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, rubella and rubella.

Children who are enrolled in the Walnut School kindergarten are already registered for first grade and no further action is necessary.

County health nurses will be on hand the days of registration to give vision screening tests and any shots that may be required.

Registration Set At Scioto

Kindergarten and first grade pre-registration will be held Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. until noon at Scioto Elementary School.

Any child who will be five or six years of age respectively by Sept. 30, and has not attended school in the Scioto School may be registered at this time.

Birth certificates and immunization records are to be brought at this time. This information must be provided in accordance with the Ohio revised law if the child is to be admitted to public school.

Nurses from the Pickaway County Health Department will be present to go over health and immunization records for public school attendance.

Bicycle Stolen

Betty Kellenberger, 390 John St., reported to Circleville Police Monday that a 10-speed bike valued at $140 belonging to her step-son, John Adams, was stolen from a shed in the back yard at 416 E. Union St.

The bike, last seen on Sunday, was discovered missing Monday at 7:30 p.m. According to Patrolman Robert Galer, the bike had a chain key lock around it, however, the lock had been removed.

Ohio Cities Facing Worsening Money Woes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio's cities and Ohio's households are similar. What effects one usually effects the other. What's good for you is usually good for the cities. But, the opposite is true also. For the past months, Associated Press writer Clint Swift has examined the finances of Ohio's municipalities. With the help of Associated Press newspapers around the state, here's his findings.

By CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer

Ohio's cities today are like Ohio's households.

Smaller cars. More dollars to fill the gas tank. Fewer washes for the automobile at the service station.

The paycheck may be fatter and the figures on the budget bigger, but the pocketbook empties faster.

Both are penny-pinchers. It's hamburger instead of steak all over the state.

Ohio municipalities are battling the economic forces that drove the East Coast metropolis of New York City to the brink of bankruptcy, but none has problems of equal size.

If some hard-pressed Ohio cities look relatively good financially, it may be because Ohio law restricts city responsibilities for social services. The cities are also forced by the state to pay as they go.

And, they look good because the nature of the people who live here is basically conservative, says John Coleman, executive director of the Ohio Municipal League.

"Welfare and education were serious problems for New York," Coleman said, "while they are principally county responsibilities here. Then, too, people in Ohio have not demanded the level of government services New Yorkers have come to expect."

However, as cities grow older, historically they have tried to take on more human services while still maintaining housekeeping services such as police and fire and trash collection, Coleman cautions. With expenses boosted by inflation and income cut by recession, that often represents a challenge.

"The budget this year is a simple case of income versus expenses," said Mount Vernon's mayor, Claude Schlosser. "Over the last four years, income from all sources has risen 7 per cent, while expenses have gone up 16.5 per cent."

In Portsmouth on the Ohio River, police and fire department protection cost about $350,000 in 1970. The cost last year was $630,000 while the safety force stayed about the same.

In Hillsboro, population 5,600, near Cincinnati, the city payroll shot from $216,587 to $408,410 during the five years. The tiny Highland County community had income of less than $1 million last year.

Cost of materials used by cities has risen almost as dramatically as that of labor.

"We will be facing the same problems as the homeowner who is eating hamburger instead of steak," said Helen Grubel, finance director of Mentor in northern Ohio.

In 1970 before Arab oil producers flexed their economic muscle, Springfield was able to buy gasoline for its city cars and trucks for 11.94 cents a gallon. Last summer the same gallon cost 34.8 cents. Finance director Thomas L. Garrett said the city uses about 300,000 gallons a year, an increase of nearly $7 million to be absorbed by the residents.

The city of about 82,000 persons uses 3,500 tons of an asphalt mixture each year to patch holes in streets. Over the last half decade, a ton of the mixture rose from $7.70 to $15.95.

Ohio ranks near the bottom of any list of states when taxes paid out of an average wage earners' paycheck are compared, Coleman said. That's partly because any proposal to levy more than a 1 per cent income tax or more than 10 mills in property taxes must go before the voters. Ten mills equals $1 for every $100 of tax valuation.

Voters make it clear they like it that way.

Washington Court House city council enacted a 1 per cent income tax last year to make ends meet. The citizens, who had voted down proposed taxes three times including one renewal proposal, killed the tax in a referendum. At year's end, city officials looked forward to a $75,000 carryover from 1975 but predicted a $100,000 deficit by the end of this year.

Since then, the council has levied a one-half per cent tax.

Mentor-on-the-Lake finished 1975 with a $27,000 deficit a month after voters rejected the idea of a 1.7 mill levy. City planners proposed to get along with $31,000 less yet this year after failing to reach the elections board in time with a proposal to renew a twin existing tax.

Proposed half per cent tax hikes also were voted down in Painesville and Dennison.

The recession cut into taxpayers' paychecks and corporate taxes, taking its toll on existing levies such as the income tax, which normally provides about half a city's operating funds. According to the Ohio Public Expenditure Council, local income taxes are the "financial mainstay of many Ohio cities and villages."

The economic slowdown in the first half of 1975 blunted construction of branch banks, a blow to Diebold Inc., manufacturer of safes and vaults and one of Canton's five largest employers. Unemployment soared to 16.9 per cent in Mount Vernon when PPG Industries, maker of plate glass, idled 700. Portsmouth officials estimated closing of Empire-Detroit Steel Corp. would cost the city $100,000 in revenue this year.

Mayor Tom Moody said he expected Columbus to receive $75 million from the city's 1½ per cent income tax this year compared with $80 million last year. In Akron, the tax brought in $500,000 less in 1975 than in 1974. Dayton, which operates on a 5-year plan because its income tax must be renewed at that interval, overestimated 1975 receipts by $2 million because of the slump.

City officials laid blame for part of their troubles at the door of county and state agencies.

Lima Mayor Harry Moyer complained of cuts in payments from the state's local government fund and of $91,000 in state liquor and gasoline taxes which he said were overdue. Financial analyst Darrell Fraley said Middletown's share of state gasoline and automobile use taxes dropped as high gasoline prices cut use.

Springfield was considering joining a suit with other cities to free $250,000 in license fees Garrett said the Bureau of Motor Vehicles had shorted his city.

Helwig said in addition to overestimating tax receipts for 1975, the city felt the impact of a drop in investment interest rates from the 11.5 per cent received in early 1975 to about 5.25 per cent on certificates of deposit.

Auto Firms Feel Effects Of Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — United Rubber Workers begin to collect strike benefits this week as their nationwide strike of the Big Four tiremakers enters its 13th day and the first effects on the auto industry begin to be felt.

The 60,000 strikers begin drawing $35 a week strike benefits but with only $5.5 million in the union's strike fund, union leaders say the fund would be depleted in a few weeks.

A URW spokesman in Akron said that the union will hold a special convention—the first in the union's 40-year history—on May 27 in Chicago to consider a proposal to levy a special assessment on all URW workers to beef up the strike fund.

Meanwhile, side effects of the rubber workers strike are showing up in Detroit. General Motors Corp. says that it no longer is including spare tires on most trucks over half-ton size.

GM also has told dealers that spare tires on passenger cars may not be the same brand as those mounted on the wheels.

A Chrysler Corp. spokesman said his company might have similar problems with specialty tires before the strike is a month old.

URW President Peter Bommarito said he had been informed that some major automakers had only enough tires stocked to last until next week.

Talks between the URW and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. resumed here today. The union hopes that a settlement on a three-year master contract with Firestone will set the pattern for settlements with the Goodyear, B.F. Goodrich and Uniroyal. Talks with those three companies are being held in other cities.

Bommarito said URW leaders will go into the meeting with charts and other material on the unlimited cost-of-living allowance issue, which is expected to be the main topic at today's meeting.

The URW is demanding pay raises and cost of living adjustments which bring the rubber workers up to parity with the auto workers. URW leaders have said this would mean a 42 per cent boost in pay and benefits.

Another issue to be dealt with this week is the suspension of supplemental unemployment benefits to 1,800 union workers laid off before the strike began. An arbitrator is expected to decide this week whether Firestone, Goodyear and Goodrich were within their contractual rights when they suspended payments.

Aggrey Faces 'Hot Seat' On Welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year veteran of the state Public Welfare Department has been named to fill the hot seat vacated by rejected director Raymond McKenna.

Kwegyir Aggrey, 67, is Gov. James A. Rhodes' choice to take the reins of the financially troubled and extremely sensitive agency. But Rhodes said many of the responsibilities will be borne by McKenna who has agreed to stay on as Aggrey's chief deputy.

Aggrey has been serving as Cleveland district manager for the department and is past president of the Ohio Welfare Conference. He is also a black man whose father was known as "the founding father of public education in his native Ghana," according to a release issued by Rhodes' office.

"Let me say the man is black and I did not appoint him because he is black," Rhodes said at a Monday news conference. "He's qualified, probably one of the most qualified in the state."

McKenna was ousted by the state Senate last week after a year-long dispute with legislators over the department's financial condition. The Senate vote followed a wave of protests sparked by McKenna's decision to reduce state Medicaid reimbursements in order to offset a funding deficit.

Rhodes has postponed the cut to May 15, but he said he would not suspend a 2 per cent spending cutback in effect at all state departments, including welfare.

"There's not going to be a lifting of the 2 per cent freeze for the simple reason that the budget would be out of balance," he said.

Kindergarten Students To Register

Walnut Elementary School, in the Teays Valley School District will hold kindergarten and first grade registration on May 10 and 11 between the hours of 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the School. Parents are asked to bring their child to the school on either of those days.

Children are eligible for kindergarten if they are five years old on or before Sept. 30 and they must be six years old on or before Sept. 30 to enroll in first grade.

Records required for registration include a birth certificate and medical immunization records.

State law requires immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, rubella and rubeola.

Children who are enrolled in the Walnut School kindergarten are already registered for first grade and no further action is necessary.

County health nurses will be on hand the days of registration to give vision screening tests and any shots that may be required.

Registration Set At Scioto

Kindergarten and first grade pre-registration will be held Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. until noon at Scioto Elementary School.

Any child who will be five or six years of age respectively by Sept. 30, and has not attended school in the Scioto School may be registered at this time.

Birth certificates and immunization records are to be brought at this time. This information must be provided in accordance with the Ohio revised law if the child is to be admitted to public school.

Nurses from the Pickaway County Health Department will be present to go over health and immunization records for public school attendance.

Bicycle Stolen

Betty Kellenberger, 390 John St., reported to Circleville Police Monday that a 10-speed bike valued at $140 belonging to her step-son, John Adams, was stolen from a shed in the back yard at 416 E. Union St.

The bike, last seen on Sunday, was discovered missing Monday at 7:30 p.m. According to Patrolman Robert Galer, the bike had a chain key lock around it, however, the lock had been removed.

Ohio Cities Facing Worsening Money Woes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio's cities and Ohio's households are similar. What effects one usually effects the other. What's good for you is usually good for the cities. But, the opposite is true also. For the past months, Associated Press writer Clint Swift has examined the finances of Ohio's municipalities. With the help of Associated Press newspapers around the state, here's his findings.

By CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer

Ohio's cities today are like Ohio's households.

Smaller cars. More dollars to fill the gas tank. Fewer washes for the automobile at the service station.

The paycheck may be fatter and the figures on the budget bigger, but the pocketbook empties faster.

Both are penny-pinchers. It's hamburger instead of steak all over the state.

Ohio municipalities are battling the economic forces that drove the East Coast metropolis of New York City to the brink of bankruptcy, but none has problems of equal size.

If some hard-pressed Ohio cities look relatively good financially, it may be because Ohio law restricts city responsibilities for social services. The cities are also forced by the state to pay as they go.

And, they look good because the nature of the people who live here is basically conservative, says John Coleman, executive director of the Ohio Municipal League.

"Welfare and education were serious problems for New York," Coleman said, "while they are principally county responsibilities here. Then, too, people in Ohio have not demanded the level of government services New Yorkers have come to expect."

However, as cities grow older, historically they have tried to take on more human services while still maintaining housekeeping services such as police and fire and trash collection, Coleman cautions. With expenses boosted by inflation and income cut by recession, that often represents a challenge.

"The budget this year is a simple case of income versus expenses," said Mount Vernon's mayor, Claude Schlosser. "Over the last four years, income from all sources has risen 7 per cent, while expenses have gone up 16.5 per cent."

In Portsmouth on the Ohio River, police and fire department protection cost about $350,000 in 1970. The cost last year was $630,000 while the safety force stayed about the same.

In Hillsboro, population 5,600, near Cincinnati, the city payroll shot from $216,587 to $408,410 during the five years. The tiny Highland County community had income of less than $1 million last year.

Cost of materials used by cities has risen almost as dramatically as that of labor.

"We will be facing the same problems as the homeowner who is eating hamburger instead of steak," said Helen Grubel, finance director of Mentor in northern Ohio.

In 1970 before Arab oil producers flexed their economic muscle, Springfield was able to buy gasoline for its city cars and trucks for 11.94 cents a gallon. Last summer the same gallon cost 34.8 cents. Finance director Thomas L. Garrett said the city uses about 300,000 gallons a year, an increase of nearly $7 million to be absorbed by the residents.

The city of about 82,000 persons uses 3,500 tons of an asphalt mixture each year to patch holes in streets. Over the last half decade, a ton of the mixture rose from $7.70 to $15.95.

Ohio ranks near the bottom of any list of states when taxes paid out of an average wage earners' paycheck are compared, Coleman said. That's partly because any proposal to levy more than a 1 per cent income tax or more than 10 mills in property taxes must go before the voters. Ten mills equals $1 for every $100 of tax valuation.

Voters make it clear they like it that way.

Washington Court House city council enacted a 1 per cent income tax last year to make ends meet. The citizens, who had voted down proposed taxes three times including one renewal proposal, killed the tax in a referendum. At year's end, city officials looked forward to a $75,000 carryover from 1975 but predicted a $100,000 deficit by the end of this year.

Since then, the council has levied a one-half per cent tax.

Mentor-on-the-Lake finished 1975 with a $27,000 deficit a month after voters rejected the idea of a 1.7 mill levy. City planners proposed to get along with $31,000 less yet this year after failing to reach the elections board in time with a proposal to renew a twin existing tax.

Proposed half per cent tax hikes also were voted down in Painesville and Dennison.

The recession cut into taxpayers' paychecks and corporate taxes, taking its toll on existing levies such as the income tax, which normally provides about half a city's operating funds. According to the Ohio Public Expenditure Council, local income taxes are the "financial mainstay of many Ohio cities and villages."

The economic slowdown in the first half of 1975 blunted construction of branch banks, a blow to Diebold Inc., manufacturer of safes and vaults and one of Canton's five largest employers. Unemployment soared to 16.9 per cent in Mount Vernon when PPG Industries, maker of plate glass, idled 700. Portsmouth officials estimated closing of Empire-Detroit Steel Corp. would cost the city $100,000 in revenue this year.

Mayor Tom Moody said he expected Columbus to receive $75 million from the city's 1½ per cent income tax this year compared with $80 million last year. In Akron, the tax brought in $500,000 less in 1975 than in 1974. Dayton, which operates on a 5-year plan because its income tax must be renewed at that interval, overestimated 1975 receipts by $2 million because of the slump.

City officials laid blame for part of their troubles at the door of county and state agencies.

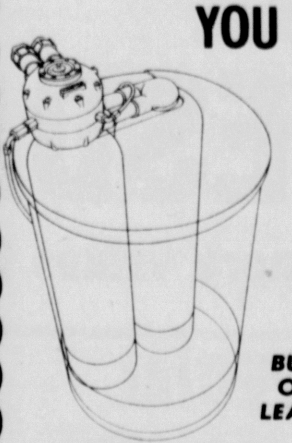

Lima Mayor Harry Moyer complained of cuts in payments from the state's local government fund and of $91,000 in state liquor and gasoline taxes which he said were overdue. Financial analyst Darrell Fraley said Middletown's share of state gasoline and automobile use taxes dropped as high gasoline prices cut use.

Springfield was considering joining a suit with other cities to free $250,000 in license fees Garrett said the Bureau of Motor Vehicles had shorted his city.

Helwig said in addition to overestimating tax receipts for 1975, the city felt the impact of a drop in investment interest rates from the 11.5 per cent received in early 1975 to about 5.25 per cent on certificates of deposit.

Exotic Crops Proved Failure For Early Ohio Residents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Before finally becoming disillusioned by repeated failures, early Ohio settlers put their hand to raising what historians called the "get rich quick" crops of the exotic type—madder, mustard and mulberry.
Madder was a plant grown since ancient times for its root which was used to make dyestuff until an artificial dye was invented in 1869 to replace it. Farmers in Lorain, Erie and Franklin Counties experimented with the plant but with little success. Not much financial success was found, either, in growing mustard seed for medicinal purposes.

The great fad in the 1840's was the mulberry tree grown to feed silk worms. John W. Gill and Thomas White of Mount Pleasant, Jefferson County, established a silk factory there in 1841. They planted 25 acres of mulberry trees and a year's lapse began the cultivation of the worms. The cocoons were processed by their 50 factory employees.
Products of the factory were silk velvet, hat plush, dress silks and novelty items. The first pattern produced by the factory was known as Buckeye Burr, light buff in color. From this premier piece of silk in 1844 was produced a vest pattern presented to Henry Clay, and the first American flag ever taken to China was made at the Gill mill.

Efforts of these pioneer silk producers eventually ended in failure, particularly due to destruction of mulberry trees by frost. Farmers had been paid $4 per bushel for the best cocoons. When Gill left the state, farmers abandoned growing mulberry trees and raising silk worms.
Historians reported that "repeated failures by farmers of new types of crops in the experimental decade of the 1840's when Ohio agriculture was breaking the bonds of superstition and staple production caused a reaction against new types of crops for many years to come."

Tagg Campers Offers Good Deals, No Gimmicks

MRS. WALTER TAGG is the bookkeeper for Tagg Campers, located on Route 23 North where good deals, not gimmicks is the key to success.

Tagg Campers, located on Route 23 North, is currently number seven in sales for Concord Motor Homes and has been in the top 10 in sales ever since last December.

Walter Tagg, owner, credits his success to "good deals." "We don't have any gimmicks or high powered sales staff," Tagg says. "We just try to give the buyer the most and the best for his money and provide him with good service."

Tagg handles a complete line of Concord Motor Homes and Starcraft campers and supplies for the motor homes and campers.

Tagg Campers provides a fulltime service department and his mechanic, Robert Raney, "is the best there is."

His line of Starcraft campers starts at $1,395 for a camper with a stove, sink and ice box, "and that's just about as low as you can go on a quality camper" according to Tagg.

One of the best buys on his lot right now is the 31-foot Concord Motor Home at $14,900.

The home features a master bedroom and a dinette area that converts to a bed in addition to the overhead front bunk and sofa. The motor home can sleep eight comfortably. Two swivel seats in front flank the entertainment center with a roll-out coffee table, a space for a television set and additional entertainment supplies.

Concord Motor Homes also builds models from 20 feet in length to the big 31-foot home.

From its rugged steel cage construction to its sporty exterior styling, Concord offers everything needed for traveling pleasure.

For driving pleasure, the Concord sports automatic transmission, automotive like console, power steering, power brakes, large sideview mirror plus a selection of chassis.

Every Concord owner receives a free first year's membership to the Champion Fleet Owner's Assn., the company's motor home owner's club.

The Concord is warranted by Champion Home Builders Co. for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. The warranty covers substantial defects in workmanship and materials including appliances, accessories, heating and air-conditioning equipment. The chassis is also warranted for one year or 12,000 miles by the respective chassis motor producer.

Starcraft offers 11 different models. Starcraftsmanship means performance, value and a limited warranty that backs everyone of the models for a full 12 months.

To make owning a Starcraft camper even more of a good time, the buyer has the opportunity to join the Starcraft Camper Club.

The club offers organized activities on the state and national level.

In addition to Tagg and Raney, employees of the camper sales include Mrs. Tagg, who is the bookkeeper and Eugene Bingman, a parttime salesman.

By keeping his overhead low, Tagg is able to offer the best deals in campers.

STARCRAFT makes a fine line of camping equipment, and Walter Tagg of Tagg Campers either has in stock or can order any accessories you need.

Attorney Fee Case Heard

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The question of whether the state should pay some $40,000 in legal fees to an attorney who represented inmates of Marion Correctional Institution was considered in federal court Monday.

Judge Don J. Young of U.S. District Court heard arguments whether to pay the money to Niki Schwartz, a Cleveland attorney who represented the inmates in a legal action that resulted in a report by a court investigator critical of the prison.

The investigator examined the prison to determine if a federal order from 1972 was being followed. He found that job assignment discrimination against black prisoners at the prison persisted.

The hearing was to determine whether prison staff complied with the federal order of 1972 and improved conditions since then. E.P. Perini, prison superintendent, and W.J. Whalen, an administrative assistant, testified.

Young gave Schwartz a week to file a brief supporting his position that he should be paid for representing the inmates. The prison attorneys will then receive a week to respond, followed by five days for Schwartz to answer. The judge will then decide whether the money should be paid.

Cincy Police Commander Suspended

CINCINNATI (AP) — Already rocked by its worst scandal in 25 years, Cincinnati's police department suffered another setback Monday with the suspension of a district commander regarded as one of the city's top officers.

Captain Gary Neville, 36, was suspended by Police Chief Myron Leistler in connection with the theft of $1,159 from a department cash fund.

Leistler said he has suspended the district three commander for three departmental violations.

Leistler said the action was taken after an intense investigation into the disappearance of the money. He termed the findings "a shock," and added that Neville had distinguished himself in the police ranks. "He was one of our brightest young officers and an up-and-coming young man."

Leistler said a hearing will be held Friday with city safety director Richard Castellini. Leistler added that criminal charges may be filed later.

The missing money has not been recovered. It was stolen more than a week ago.

Earlier this year, six police officers, including police chief Carl Goodin and Vice Squad Commander Richard Beyer, were suspended on charges of bribery and tampering with evidence.

Bad Weather Diminishes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms remained over Arizona but winds diminished and dust storm warnings were canceled overnight. Gusts had reached nearly 60 miles per hour during the late evening at Prescott and 55 miles per hour near Phoenix.

Snow flurries continued along the lower Great Lakes basin into the eastern end of the Great Lakes. Flurries were light and were not likely to leave much snow on the ground.

There were rainshowers and occasional thunderstorms along the central Atlantic coast and scattered over south Florida. Showers also were scattered through the north Rockies into north portions of Nevada and Utah. But skies were clear over most of the nation.

Unseasonably cold air was pushing southeastward. Frost reached into the Pennsylvania Allegheny mountains last night. And freeze warnings were posted for this morning as far south as the western mountains of Virginia.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 26 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 77 at Needles, Calif.

California Proposal Curbs A-Plants

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Californians go to the polls June 8 in the first ballot test of concern over power plant safety vs. the need for more electricity.

And both sides agree approval by most of the Golden State's nine million eligible voters of the Nuclear Power Plants Initiative — Prop. 15 — would help similar campaigns in other states.

Will it pass? It's too soon to tell, according to pollster Mervin Field. He said the public is "incredibly confused" on the issue. But his latest California Poll of 1,034 adults through March 31 found 65 per cent were aware of the initiative and sentiment was about 5 to 4 against the measure.

"California is critical. If its proposal is passed, it will send tremors far beyond California. If the initiative passes, a 'domino' effect could reverberate through states with similar pending initiatives," says a memo written by John W. Simpson, a Westinghouse official in Pittsburgh Pa., and president of the Atomic Industry Forum, a trade association.

Simpson's memo was written for the AIF board of directors and was published by Friends of the Earth, a proinitiative conservation group. Westinghouse officials confirmed the memo was Simpson's.

California's is the first test of public reaction to the questions of nuclear power plant safety. In November, voters in Oregon and Colorado have similar decisions to make. The industry must make its stand in California, says the Simpson memo.

Opponents call it the "nuclear shutdown initiative" because they say it is too much to ask for two-thirds of California's legislature to approve of nuclear fuel recycling and waste storage methods, or require the utilities to waive federal Price-Anderson Act liability limits.

Proponents call it the "nuclear safeguards initiative," and they want restrictions—even a ban on new plant construction — unless the questions of nuclear fuel recycling, waste disposal and storage are answered to the satisfaction of two-thirds of the California Legislature.

Passage of Prop. 15 "could deter further (presidential) and congressional support for nuclear power. It could influence the world nuclear developments," says Simpson.

David Pesonen, an author of Prop. 15 and chairman of the campaign, says: "It's the first attempt in the nation to put public control over nuclear power. If it's safe, if there are ways to dispose of radioactive wastes, why does the industry oppose Prop. 15? It merely makes them show it is safe."

He predicts, if the initiative passes, that candidates in November elections will have to re-evaluate their positions, and the Congress may act to bring about federal regulations.

A California Assembly committee held extensive hearings on nuclear power last fall, and determined that it could not totally believe either side.

They felt the initiative too restrictive, and the two-thirds majority vote of the legislature is widely considered impractical by the lawmakers themselves, so they have proposed their own legislation as an alternative.

The California Legislature was recently polled by the Sacramento Union and found 5 to 1 against the initiative.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, has not taken a stand. He says he will, but first must study the pending legislation.

Federal officials say that the U.S. Constitution pre-empts states from regulating nuclear energy. But these same officials, who say Prop. 15 will lose in the courts if passed, told the legislative hearings that California's 21 million people could not be ignored in Washington.

Simpson said as many as 14 other states were targets for initiatives.

Both sides have issued dire warnings.

Utilities that operate the three existing nuclear plants in California say there could be "rolling brownouts" if nuclear plants are shut down. Without nuclear power, there will be a greater dependence on Arab oil, or even dirty-burning coal, the utilities argue.

Pesonen describes proponents as a coalition of "antinuclear Project Survival" and groups like the Sierra Club that don't believe nuclear power is safe enough and warn of a lethal legacy for future generations.

Lottery Game Funds Blocked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An apparent breakdown in communications has blocked release of $845,000 to support a new "instant lottery game," scheduled to begin June 15.

Several State Controlling Board members complained Monday that they had not been given enough detailed information by the state Lottery Commission in advance on the request for funds.

The board approved a contract last April 19 with Mathematica Inc. of New Jersey to devise the instant lottery game. However that action only authorized the pact and did not provide any money, according to lottery spokesman Guy Westmoreland. He warned that the delay could jeopardize plans for the Mathematica game. "The whole effort is going to blow," Westmoreland told the finance panel. "I think it will destroy confidence in the integrity of the lottery and the state we represent."

Board members were not swayed and told Westmoreland to come back May 11 with more information and a representative from the New Jersey firm to field questions.

Controlling Board President Robert Hovarth told Westmoreland the commission's credibility was already in question because of a late filing with the Office of Budget and Management.

Westmoreland said maybe the Cleveland location was a factor in faulty communications between the commission and other state officials.

He said ticket sales on the games would return $4 million to the state's general revenue fund in the period between June 15, when tickets go on sale, and July 1.

Of the money requested, the lottery official told newsmen $545,000 would go to Mathematica, deviser of the game. Most of the rest is earmarked for advertising, promotion, equipment and travel involved in setting up the new game.

In a separate item, the board balked at a request from the Ohio Transportation Department to sign a $79,000 contract for development of a

"It seems to me you're going to be in competition with every automobile dealer in the country that's doing research in electric automobiles," said Rep. A. G. Lancia, D-99 Bellaire.

Under the proposed contract, to be funded by gasoline tax revenue, two electric cars would be built for the state by Electric Vehicles Associates Inc. of Parma, reputedly the second largest manufacturer of electric vehicles in the country.

"We believe so strongly in the future of electric vehicles that we are not afraid to put them out on the street," said Warren Harhay of the Parma firm.

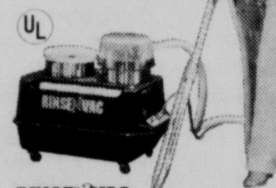

"Actually, you are asking us to take a gamble," asserted Hovarth.

The board decided to play it safe for the present time, but agreed to reconsider the contract at an undetermined later date.

River Becomes Education Tool

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

"The idea I admit was pretty foreign to most of them," said Edward Lueders, who suggested that the 19 students in his seminar on "The River in American Life" become personally involved in their coursework.

Lueders and his class are currently poking around Ohio River towns and cities, picking up knowledge to add to that they gained during a three-day drift along the river on America's only remaining overnight steamboat, "The Delta Queen."

"Most of my students thought of a river as something that started up in a mountain and then came roaring through a canyon," Lueders said.

There have been no canyons during the seminar's exploration of the Ohio River. Only a quietly flowing river and mist shrouded mornings which prompted lapses into fantasy.

"You would go on deck early in the morning and it became very easy to slip into the 19th century," said Lueders. "The trees would suddenly rise up out of the mist and you would gradually emerge out of the past and slip into the present. It was a magic time."

The boat trip was the highlight of the classes' two-week tour of the area, which continues through Sunday. It was also the culmination of the course in which Lueders, a professor of English, hoped to combine many diverse subjects including history, law, navigation, archaeology as well as readings from Mark Twain, Henry Thoreau and Ernest Hemingway.

The trip, which took them to Cincinnati, down the Ohio to Louisville on the Delta Queen, back up to Cincinnati and then on a car trip to several river towns, cost each student $370.

"The time we've spent here has been a synthesis of everything we've learned so far," said Lueders. "I don't know a better place to have it all come together."

"There is more history, more lore, more of the way it was and the way it is to come in this stretch of river than anywhere else."

While they were on the Delta Queen, there were no set classes. Lueders urged his students to become "participants" in their education.

They participated in a steamboat race and experienced the same unabandoned joy as Huckleberry Finn at jumping from a high place into a river when they splashed into the Ohio from the second deck of the Delta Queen.

Lueders admits that the cost of the trip may make his exploration of the Ohio River a one-shot deal, but he doesn't plan to halt his policy of getting his students involved.

"I'm just as partial to Western rivers," said Lueders who spent time teaching along the Ohio at Hanover College in Indiana. "Who could deny the excitement of exploring the same river that Lewis and Clark first explored."

"There's the whole range of the American experience to be found on a river. It's something that we can all respond to."

Retail Merchants Plan Projects

The regular monthly meeting of Circleville Retail Merchants Association was held Monday at Pickaway Arms with 13 members present.

Plans are being completed for the next promotion on June 14. A Christmas decorating committee was appointed with Bud Christopher and Paul Dean as co-chairmen.

Members were reminded to register for the Small Business Workshop to be held May 10 and 11 at Pickaway Ross Joint Vocational Center.

The next meeting will be 1 p.m., June 7, at Shawnee Vineyards.

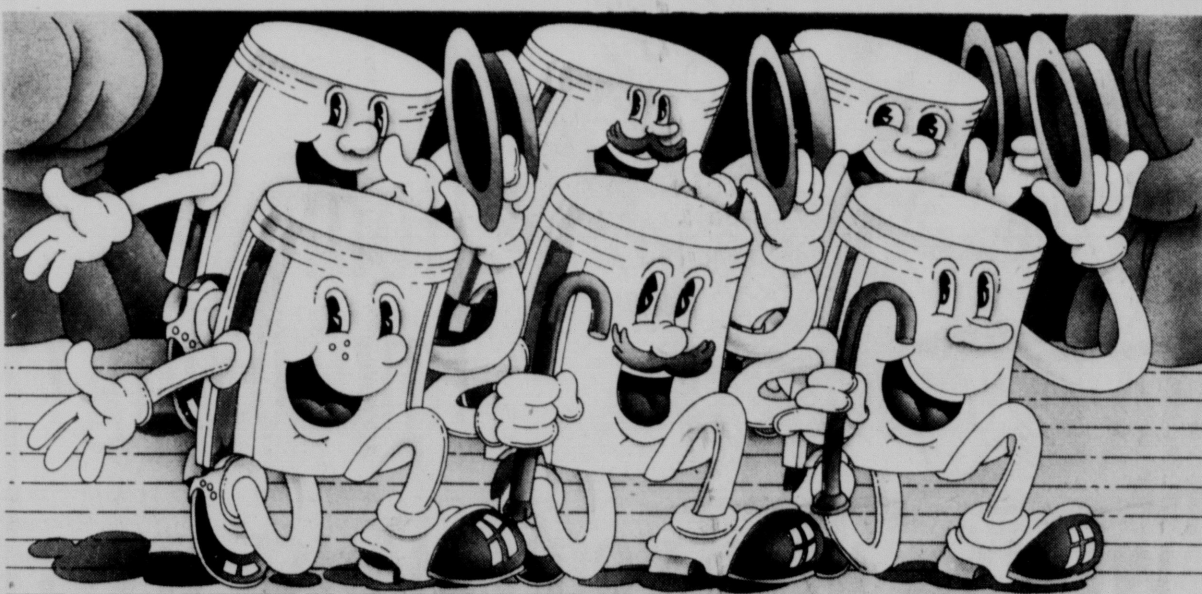

Motorcycle Recovered

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon recovered a stolen motorcycle Monday evening. The bike, belonging to Mrs. Janice Higley, 113 Avondale Ave., Columbus, had been reported stolen to the Columbus Police Department and was removed from her front porch sometime Wednesday night.

The motorcycle was found by Eddie Hickman, 16, of Columbus, a friend of the victim. He discovered it when he was invited to go cycle riding with some friends from Commercial Point. He reported the bike to Mrs. Higley who notified Deputy Dixon. Dixon recovered the bike in good condition near Commercial Point. The bike has been impounded pending completion of the investigation.

Richard M. Daily, Route 2, Mt. Sterling, reported that culprits removed an eight-volt battery, two crescent wrenches and a set of battery cables from a trailer lot he owns on William-Palestine Road. The theft occurred between 4:30 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday.

Ray Stover, 15846 Cromley Rd., Ashville, reported burglars had entered an open barn on the Stover farm, removed a 12-volt battery from a 1976 Ford truck, and siphoned 25 gallons of fuel from the side fuel tank. The theft occurred sometime between Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday. According to Deputy J. R. Fite, no physical evidence was found at the scene. No estimated value was given.

The Magnificent Six.

They're six cylinders with an important distinction. They belong to Buick's terrific little V-6 engine—an engine that manages to combine the practicality of a six with many of the design strengths of a V-8. And this year Buick's V-6 comes in five different Buicks: Skyhawk, Skylark, Century, Regal and LeSabre.

As you can see from the chart, Buick's V-6 has been responsible for some pretty impressive EPA Mileage figures. Of course, they're only estimates. The mileage you get will vary, depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment. Still, it would certainly be worth your while to stop by and test drive any of the impressive new V-6 Buicks.

While they were on the Delta Queen, there were no set classes. Lueders urged his students to become "participants" in their education.

They participated in a steamboat race and experienced the same unabandoned joy as Huckleberry Finn at jumping from a high place into a river when they splashed into the Ohio from the second deck of the Delta Queen.

Lueders admits that the cost of the trip may make his exploration of the Ohio River a one-shot deal, but he doesn't plan to halt his policy of getting his students involved.

"I'm just as partial to Western rivers," said Lueders who spent time teaching along the Ohio at Hanover College in Indiana. "Who could deny the excitement of exploring the same river that Lewis and Clark first explored."

"There's the whole range of the American experience to be found on a river. It's something that we can all respond to."

The Magnificent Six.

They're six cylinders with an important distinction. They belong to Buick's terrific little V-6 engine—an engine that manages to combine the practicality of a six with many of the design strengths of a V-8. And this year Buick's V-6 comes in five different Buicks: Skylark, Skylark, Century, Regal and LeSabre.

As you can see from the chart, Buick's V-6 has been responsible for some pretty impressive EPA Mileage figures. Of course, they're only estimates. The mileage you get will vary, depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment. Still, it would certainly be worth your while to stop by and test drive any of the impressive new V-6 Buicks.

Tribe Edges Oakland, 5-4

OAKLAND (AP) — George Hendrick, with as many reasons as anyone to be hot, stayed cool and won a game for the Cleveland Indians.

The outfielder who was called "Easy Rider" as a rookie with the Oakland A's five years ago, started the day by getting a jaywalking ticket from an Oakland policeman on the street outside the Indians' hotel.

In Monday night's game, Hendrick shrugged off a questionable strike call at the plate in the eighth inning and came back with a 10th inning home run off A's relief star Rollie Fingers, making Cleveland a 5-4 winner.

"The way I look at it, umpires are part of the game. I figure I should get at least one pitch to hit each time I'm up, and if the umps call me out it means I didn't swing at my pitch," Hendrick said after beating his former team in the only major league baseball game of the day.

Fingers threw a belt-high slider that proved to be Hendrick's pitch, one that was hit over the fence in straightaway center field. It was Hendrick's fourth homer of the year.

"I got all my pitches where I wanted them," insisted Fingers, who entered the game in the eighth in search of his third save and ended up with his first loss of the season instead. "I guess pitchers get into slumps just like hitters."

Indians Manager Frank Robinson was thrown out of the game in the eighth, after complaining about a low-pitch strike called on Hendricks. Five innings earlier, the A's Don Baylor and Indians starting pitcher Dennis Eckersley were ejected moments apart, Baylor after being thrown out at first base and Eckersley for whatever he called plate umpire Rich Garcia.

"That was an awfully quick hook he gave me. I couldn't believe I was out. There's a first time for everything, I guess," said Eckersley, who didn't deny he directed a little profanity in Garcia's direction as the third inning ended.

With two outs and two A's on base, Eckersley's string of 17 consecutive scoreless innings ended on a 2-0 pitch which Joe Rudi belted deep into the left field bleachers to tie the score at 3-3. The pitcher, whose relatives and friends from nearby Fremont were in the crowd of 19,765, thought his first pitch to Rudi should have been a strike.

Rudi came to bat three more times and the Indians walked him three times, twice intentionally.

"I wasn't glad we had situations that called for intentional walks. But I was glad first base was open so we could put him there and know where he was," said Robinson. "Rudi's been killing us."

Three of Rudi's four homers this season have been off Cleveland pitching. He leads the American League with 23 runs batted in, including eight against the Indians.

Rudi, batting third in the order, admitted later it was frustrating to keep walking down to first so the Indians could pitch to .166 hitter Cesar Tovar who replaced the original cleanup hitter Baylor, who is batting .139.

"When a few more guys start hitting, we'll be okay," said Rudi, who has been waiting since opening day.

The A's Dick Bosman lasted only 2 2-3 innings in his first 1976 start, giving up three runs in the first when Cleveland had four singles including one by Buddy Bell who raised his average to .385.

The 3-3 tie was broken in the A's fifth when reliever Stan Thomas made a throwing error and walked three men, Tovar with the bases loaded to force in a run. Cleveland got just one hit in 4 2-3 innings against Jim Todd but got to Fingers quickly, tying the score in the ninth when Alan Ashby, Rick Manning and Duane Kuiper singled.

Tom Buskey, 1-1, second Cleveland reliever, got the pitching victory and Dave LaRoche earned a save with a strong 10th inning performance ending with three straight pitches which struck out Phil Garner with the bases loaded.

The Indians went over the .500 mark with the victory, their fifth in the last seven games, and the A's fell to .500.

Explosive Inning Gives Vikes Victory, 12-9

A nine-run second inning, including three home runs, gave Teays Valley a 12-9 decision over visiting Olen tangy Monday and gave the Vikings their fifth win of the season.

Olen tangy broke on top with four runs in the top of the first but the Vikings sent 14 men to the plate in the bottom of the second inning. And when the dust had cleared nine runners had crossed the plate behind a nine-hit, two-walk attack.

Roger Bickers, Rusty Rathburn and Duane Keller all slammed a home run to lead the plate barrage for the Vikings.

Terry Smith, Dean Gloyd and Eric Graves shared mound duties for the Vikings. They allowed a total of 13 hits, fanned four and didn't issue a walk.

Tom Hutt and Larry Cline were on the hill for the Braves. They gave up a total of 14 hits, walked five and struck out three.

Olen tangy added single runs in the fourth and fifth innings and pushed three more across in the seventh.

Teays Valley's final three runs came in the bottom of the fourth frame.

Bickers had a homer and double, Rathburn belted a four-bagger and single, Keller slammed a home run, Jim Baxter rapped four singles, Jay Van Pelt cracked three singles and Lance Roese ripped a pair of one-baggers, to account for the Viking hits. Tom Hutt bombed a homer for Olen tangy.

Sports Highlights

CINCINNATI (AP) — This is a frustrating time for the Cincinnati Reds' Tony Perez, who once hit 40 home runs in a season, but so far for this season, he has no home runs and only 11 hits.

Perez's record season came in 1970 when he opened the year with 10 home runs in April, a National League record which has since been bettered by Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh and Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia.

Perez has 258 lifetime home runs, not counting three in championship play, three in the World Series and one in All-Star competition.

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The Boston Celtics...just saying it can give you goosebumps."

That was the way Cleveland Cavaliers Coach Bill Fitch put his feelings about the vaunted National Basketball Association powerhouse into words earlier this season.

Now his young Cavaliers face the awesome task of playing the veteran Celtics in the best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference playoff finals.

LE Reserves Stop Aces

The Logan Elm reserve baseball team defeated Amanda-Clearcreek, 7-1, Monday on the Braves' diamond.

Mark Vanover was the winning pitcher, fanning 12, walking one and hitting one batter and allowing only two hits in his performance.

For the Aces, Hedrick started and was relieved by Destadio and Myers. They fanned five, walked one, hit one batter and allowed 10 hits.

For the Braves, Lynn Strehle went four for four at the plate, poling a single, two doubles and a homerun. Tom Congrove and John Mettler collected two hits each, Todd Young one and Jeff Davis one.

The Logan Elm reserves are 7-2 overall and play at Teays Valley Wednesday.

Sports Highlights

CINCINNATI (AP) — This is a frustrating time for the Cincinnati Reds' Tony Perez, who once hit 40 home runs in a season, but so far for this season, he has no home runs and only 11 hits.

Perez's record season came in 1970 when he opened the year with 10 home runs in April, a National League record which has since been bettered by Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh and Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia.

Perez has 258 lifetime home runs, not counting three in championship play, three in the World Series and one in All-Star competition.

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The Boston Celtics...just saying it can give you goosebumps."

That was the way Cleveland Cavaliers Coach Bill Fitch put his feelings about the vaunted National Basketball Association powerhouse into words earlier this season.

Now his young Cavaliers face the awesome task of playing the veteran Celtics in the best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference playoff finals.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE
Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Your perceptiveness and a good judgment in familiar activities could be a boon in certain situations. You COULD try something new if so inclined, but don't go beyond your depth.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Excellent prospects for starting or developing new business associations. An unusual idea could spark an entire different approach in career matters, also.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A good day for closing deals profitably or arriving at accords which will make them possible later. Cut a few corners if you can.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Precautions and prudence must be your bywords now. Be especially careful in business transactions, experimentation and personal relationships.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Talks with superiors and (or) associates could be quite revealing. Wholehearted cooperation will be offered — freely and graciously.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Get important matters out of the way by noon, if possible. Certain planetary restrictions in the p.m. could bring about delays, unexpected interruptions.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Present planetary influences suggest that you now take the lead where you can to help in straightening out situations which could worsen through neglect.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Mars in benefic aspect. Rouse yourself to that added effort which brings sweet compensation for extra-curricular work. Stay alert, aware.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): People about you may seem less open-minded and enthusiastic about your ideas now, but with a bit of clever strategy, you CAN turn the tide.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): New offerings indicated. Not all should be accepted without question. On the other hand, don't pass up any without investigation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Stellar influences indicate changing trends in certain areas. You won't like them all immediately, but many are better than they appear at first glance. Study!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Curb inclinations to extremism and avoid the bizarre. Strict conformists could misconstrue your actions — to your detriment.

YOU BORN TODAY, like most Taureans, are endowed with unusual versatility and could succeed in almost any field of your choice. However, you incline to scatter your energies and, unless you learn to "settle down" and pursue your chosen career to its ultimate potential, could fritter away your many talents — accomplishing nothing. You are one of those rare persons who combine idealism with practical know-how so that, once you have learned the merits of discipline and concentration, you can have success without end. Taureans make excellent musicians, writers, artists, scientists, teachers and horticulturists. Birthdate of: Karl Marx, German socialist, author of "Das Kapital."

vice presidency in 1973 after pleading no contest to a charge of evading federal income taxes, isn't seen on television very often. But that'll change soon.

On Tuesday, a week from today, he'll be interviewed for an hour on NBC's "Today" show, the show says. And he'll appear in a taped 90-minute interview the same night on the syndicated "Merv Griffin Show" here.

The reason: He has written "The Canfield Decision," a novel about White House life, and is promoting his first effort in the literary field.

"He's making the whole circuit," says Bob Murphy, producer of the Griffin show, the first of the talk shows to get Agnew as a guest.

Murphy says getting the usually reclusive Agnew wasn't hard. A press agent for Agnew called him up and asked if he'd like to have Agnew on the show to discuss the book.

He said the press agent was told yes, whereupon Agnew last April 19 showed up at the Hollywood studio where Griffin tapes his show and did an interview lasting the entire length of the program.

The pay: $354, the same fee paid all of Griffin's guests. "He actually didn't want to be paid, but we have to pay everyone who comes on," Murphy said, citing the rules of the performers' union, the American Federation of Radio and Television artists.

Murphy was asked if the former vice president set any ground rules for the interview.

"Well, I had a conversation with him beforehand because Merv didn't want to do the interview if he was shackled too much," Murphy said.

He said Agnew told him he "could not talk about events leading up to his resignation because of pending litigation in Maryland, that he didn't want to speak about presidential candidates and that he didn't want to speak about (former) President Nixon."

Did he say why he didn't want to discuss Nixon?

"No, he just said he preferred not to," Murphy replied. "I should make this clear, though — Agnew didn't say certain questions couldn't be asked. He said, 'Merv can ask me anything he wants. It's just that I might not answer some.'"

Some Sunshine For Blind Dog

READING, Pa. (AP) — Princess, a blind stray dog, received both good and bad news recently.

Bad news was that she would be blind permanently. The dog, who had been taken in by a local humane society, was first diagnosed as having congenital cataracts. So, the society raised some $600 toward an operation by an appeal through a newspaper. However, when the dog was sent to the University of Pennsylvania for the operation, veterinarians there found that she had inoperable cataracts and retinal detachment.

Good news was that she had been adopted by Mrs. Gary Eberhart. Princess now romps with Mrs. Eberhart's two other dogs and two children.

The first store carrying a variety of goods under one roof opened in 1862 and by 1970 there were 6,000 of them with sales of nearly $50 billion.

The barn swallow is a summer visitor to the United States and Canada, spending its winters in South America.

Will Buy Back

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The tribal council of the White Earth Reservation in Minnesota has unanimously passed a resolution offering to enter negotiations with the state and city officials of New York to buy back Manhattan Island on behalf of American Indians.

The council made one stipulation. Compensating for inflation, top offer would be $74.63 to be paid in ornamental beads.

The song sparrow has several favorite perches to which it comes back day after day to sing its song.
